COMMENTARY

Advance estimates released by the Ministry of Trade and Industry ("MTI") on 14 July 20231 revealed that the Singapore economy grew by 0.7% on a year-on-year ("y-o-y") basis in the second quarter of 2023 ("2Q2023"), a slight improvement from the 0.4% y-o-y growth recorded in the preceding quarter. On a seasonally-adjusted quarterly basis, GDP grew 0.3% - reversing from the previous quarter's 0.4% contraction - and helped Singapore avert a technical recession. The sluggish growth stemmed mainly from the dismal performance of the manufacturing sector, which contracted 7.5% on a y-o-y basis in 2Q2023, after recording a 5.3% y-o-y decline in the first quarter of 2023 ("1Q2023").

On the other hand, Singapore's construction sector continued growing robustly, expanding by 6.6% and 6.9% on a y-o-y basis in 2Q2023 and 1Q2023 respectively, after having recorded a 6.7% y-o-y growth for the whole of 2022. Post-COVID, the local construction sector has been well-supported by strong demand. According to the Building and Construction Industry ("BCA"), total construction demand for 2022 reached $$29.8 billion, which was within BCA's earlier forecast of $$27 billion to S$32 billion, and similar to the S$29.9 billion recorded in 2021. For 2023, the BCA projects that total local construction demand would range between $$27 billion and $$32 billion, with the public sector expected to make up 60% of this demand. In fact, contracts awarded in the civil engineering and residential segments have largely returned to pre-Covid levels (Chart 1).³ In particular, the Housing & Development Board ("HDB") has ramped up the supply of Build-To-Order ("BTO") flats to meet increased housing demand, from 17,100 flats in 2021, to 23,200 flats in 2022, and 23,000 flats in 2023. According to the HDB, it remains on track to launch 100,000 flats from 2021 to 2025.4

Whilst this strong local demand bodes well for reinforcing steel and BRC Asia going forward, the recent business failures of some main contractors is a stark reminder that there remains loss-making pre-COVID construction projects that are still uncompleted, and they continue to test the financial resilience and mettle of their builders severely. In this regard, BRC Asia will continue to exercise robust due diligence to minimise our exposure.

As of 30 June 2023, our sales order book stood at approximately S$1.34 billion. The duration of projects in our sales order book range up to 5 years and may be subject to further changes.
